The crack turner of the local department of the republican organ of this city says that there is trouble among the local democracy, and that a re-organization of the county central committee is necessary in order to secure a head to the faction favorable to the "old ticket." &c. Good lord, how easily he lies! The democrats do not know of any want of harmony on this point. There will be a meeting of the county central committee on Saturday at one o'clock for the purpose of arranging for the organization of the county, calling the county convention, and attending to such other business as properly comes before it. If the democrats are all torn into factions, why worry, and lie about them? They have a right to meet and conduct their business in their own way. We are glad to say that the democrats of Macon county are united. As to certain ones of the faithful being displeased because they are not invited, the Republican man is informed that the meeting is only of members of the county central committee.

The Republican has had its bowels of compassion for the Review moved on account of its position on the question of tariff and candidates on the national ticket, and for governor of Illinois. The Republican has lately given evidence of an opinion on the tariff question endorsing our present robber tariff, a system that indirectly robs the many in the interest of a few; a system that protects the private business investments of privileged classes at the expense of the many. And it takes great comfort to itself that Samuel J. Tilden and Carter H. Harrison by "a policy of masterly inactivity on the tariff question" will really favor a continuation of the present wrongs of taxation upon the people. Mr. Tilden was elected president in 1876 upon a reform platform. On no question was it more pronounced than upon that of the tariff. If the Republican and its protection friends, whether they be republicans or democrats can get any comfort out of the emphatic declarations of that masterly document, they are welcome to it. It says: "We denounce the present tariff, levied upon nearly four thousand articles, as a masterpiece of injustice, inequality, and false pretense. It yields a dwindling, not a yearly rising revenue. It has impoverished many industries to subsidize a few. It prohibits imports that might purchase the products of American labor. It has degraded American commerce from the first to an inferior rank on the high seas. It has cut down the sales of American manufactures at home and abroad, and depleted the returns of American agriculture—an industry followed by one half our people. It costs the people five times more than it produces to the treasury, obstructs the process of production, and wastes the fruits of labor. It promotes fraud, fosters smuggling, enriches dishonest officials, and bankrupts honest merchants. We demand that all custom-house taxation shall be only for revenue."

HUNTED BANKS.
The Metropolitan, of New York, suspends. Also Hatch & Poots and Donnell, Lawson & Simpson.
Special to the Review
New York, May 14, 11:30 a. m.—The Metropolitan bank has suspended and its doors are closed. George I. Seney is president.
A BOWL OF DISMAY.
The Post says: "At twenty minutes after 11 o'clock a long line of men and boys stood in front of the paying teller's window in the Metropolitan bank at Broadway and Pine streets, of which George I. Seney is president. Every person in the line held one or more checks to be certified, alarming rumors as to the failure in every direction having made uncertified checks of no value, no matter by whom signed. Just at that moment the paying teller shut his window with a bang and announced that the Metropolitan bank had to suspend payment as a matter of necessity and precaution. A bowl of dismay went up from the line of men and a break was made for the door, where a number of depositors were met hurrying in to get a denial of the rumored suspension. In less than five minutes the iron doors were shut and a policeman had arrived to stand guard on the steps."

New York, May 14.—At the Clearing House the bank presidents are in session. It is stated on the best authority that the banks will stand by each other as they did in 1873. The resumption of the Metropolitan is considered likely. At the Stock Exchange delivery hour is awaited with great anxiety.
New York, May 14.—Hatch & Foot announce their suspension at the Stock Exchange.
New York, May 13.—Donnell, Law son & Simpson have announced their suspension. They are large dealers in county, water and city bonds. It is said they have $2,000,000 with the suspended Metropolitan bank. The firm say, "Owing to the general panic prevailing, we deem it best to suspend until we can see where we stand."

New York, May 14.—In the statement issued by the Clearing House, April 24th (the last issued), the full condition of the Metropolitan bank was as follows:

Capital	$3,000,000
Net profits	1,498,000
Circulation	1,301,600
Due banks	5,815,000
Due depositors	3,192,300
Unpaid dividend	5,149
Total	$11,815,500
Certified checks	$957,200

Terrible Accident.
Pittsburg, May 14.—About ten o'clock this morning a collision occurred on the B. & O. road at a point one mile east of Connelville, between a freight train going west and a construction train going east, resulting in a terrible loss of life. The construction train consisted of six camp cars containing fifty laborers on their way to the Ohio Pyle Falls to work. It was telescoped and fourteen men were crushed to death. Many others were injured. The names of the killed have not yet been received. There is a sharp curve where the accident occurred and both trains came together with a crash. The cars are burning and the bodies are being cremated.

Strange Attitudes on Death.
At the battle of Williamsburg, a United States Zouave was shot directly through the forehead, as he was climbing over a low fence, and his body was found in the last attitude in life—on his leg half over the fence, the body crouching backwards. One hand, partially clenched and raised to the level of the forehead, presented the palm forward as if to ward off an approaching evil. A brakeman of a freight-car on the Nashville & Chattanooga Railroad was instantaneously killed by a shot between the eyes, fired by a guerrilla. The murdered man was crouching down the brakes at the moment of the shot. After death the body remained in the same attitude, extended on the wheel of the brake. The pipe which he had been smoking remained still clasped between his teeth. The conservation of the last attitude can take place in other circumstances than sudden death from wounds to the brain, the heart, or the lungs, although an injury to a single organ is the most frequent cause of the phenomenon. A detail of United States soldiers, foraging near Goldsboro, N. C., came suddenly upon a party of Southern cavalry dismounted. The latter immediately sprang to their saddles, and after a volley had been fired at them, they all but one rode away. The one was left standing with one foot in the stirrup, one hand, the left, grasping the bridle-rein and mane of his horse, the right hand clenching the barrel of his carbine near the muzzle, the butt of his carbine resting on the ground. The man's head was turned over his right shoulder, apparently watching the approach of the attacking party. He was called upon to surrender, without response, and upon a near approach and examination he was found to be rigid in death, in the singular attitude above described. Great difficulty was experienced in forcing the man of the horse from his left hand and the carbine from his right. On the local battlefield, near Sedan, in 1870, the dead body of a soldier was found half sitting, half lying on the ground, delicately holding a tin goblet between his thumb and forefinger and directing it toward an absent mouth. While in that position the poor man had been killed by a cannon-ball, which had carried away the whole of his head and face except the lower jaw. The body and arm had been suddenly seized at the time of death by a stiffness which produced the persistence of the state in which they were when the head was cut off. Twenty-four had elapsed since the battle.

A Billion.
[Youth's Companion.]
What is a billion? In the French system of notation, which is also used in the United States, it is a thousand million, but the English system gives the name billion to a million million. The word is used in the latter sense in the article.
Six Henry Bessemer, the famous inventor, who is in the habit of occupying his leisure with curious calculations for the amusement of his grandchild, tried to convey some idea of the immensity expressed in this little word.
He took it successively as a measure of time, of length and of weight. Selecting the second as a unit to be used in the first calculation, he began with the startling assertion that a billion seconds have not yet elapsed since the commencement of the Christian era—nor, indeed, even a sixteenth part of that number. A billion seconds make 31,687 years, 17 days, 22 hours, 48 minutes and 5 seconds.

In regard to length he chose for his unit the English sovereign, a coin of the size of a half-crown. A chain of a billion sovereigns would be long enough to pass seven hundred and sixty-three times around the globe or, suppose all these coins laid end by end, each in contact with its neighbor, it would for about the north a golden line fifty-six feet six inches wide. The same chain, were it stretched out straight, would make a line a fraction over 15,323,415 miles in extent.
For measuring height, Sir Henry chose for a unit a single sheet of such paper as that which the London Times is printed—a measure of about one three hundred thirty-third of an inch in thickness. A billion of these thin sheets, pressed out flat and piled vertically upon each other, would attain the altitude of forty-seven thousand three hundred and forty-eight miles.

The True Test.
If a man is truly within an hour more or less of a meal he is a dyspeptic. It shows his stomach is not able to dispose of what he has eaten, but to eat again, and thus impose more work, is absurdity. Take Dr. Jones' Catarrh Tonic, which cures dyspepsia, and all stomach, liver, kidney and bladder troubles. It is a perfect tonic, appetizer, blood purifier, a sure cure for acute and chronic diseases. Price 50c. Sold at Dr. J. A. Brown's.

Our Present Bleakings.
Our Bleakings are not appreciated as we are. A printed sheet. Most notable among our other bleakings. A taking cough, a sore cold or any throat or lung disease is very troublesome, but all these may be quickly and permanently removed by Dr. Brown's Positive Cure. Trial bottles free at Dr. J. A. J. Stainer's.

One faithful Macon correspondent gives us a rather harrowing account of a case of wife-beating, which occurred in the town on Saturday evening. As it is a subject of legal investigation, and has already been reported to a member of the grand jury, we deem it best to withhold the communication, as well as any expression of opinion, at least for the present.

Minnie Koelmell, the seventeen-year-old daughter of Alex Koelmell, of Blue Mound, died yesterday afternoon, of scarlet fever. She was an estimable young lady, and greatly beloved by all her friends and associates, who deeply mourn her early death. Another daughter of Mr.
Koelmell is lying at death's door, she also being afflicted with scarlet fever.

The Macon called in at Linn & Scruggs' establishment yesterday, and asked, "Have you anything special for the Daily and Weekly River?" He was told to look about the store and write. He found a perfect jam of customers, crowding to be waited upon. There was a "perfect rush," and he was told that "it had been so for several days." They were offering special inducements to buyers, inducements that do not fail to draw trade. When muslins, calicoes and other staple goods are offered at astonishingly low figures, the people buy. When carpets, wall papers and curtains are found in beautiful designs, and at much below old time prices, they find they can afford to buy them. They find all of these in immense quantities at Linn & Scruggs. Proof of this is in a visit to their mammoth establishment.

Sad Accident. ✓
Charlie Kilo, a twelve year old son of Mr. Isaac W. Kilo, who resides near Cairo Gordo, met with an accident of a very serious character on Tuesday evening, which may yet be attended with fatal consequences.
The lad had been at work in the field, and had returned home at night. He put his horses in the stable, and proceeded to unharness them. He had taken the harness from one, and was in the act of hanging it up, when he was kicked on the back of the head by one of the animals, and knocked perfectly senseless, in which condition he was found soon afterwards.
Yesterday Dr. Ham, of Argenta, and Dr. W. J. Chonoweth, of this city, were called, and found the boy still unconscious. An examination showed a large compound comminuted fracture on the right side of his head a little back of and above the ear.
The skull was fractured, and a piece of the cranium about two inches in length by one and one-eighth in breadth was removed. They also found a small piece of skull bone detached and forced down into the brain. This was also removed, and the boy yesterday evening was resting quite comfortably, and may recover.

Thigh Broken.
Edward Willis, son of Mr. Jacob Willis, went to the timber yesterday afternoon for a load of wood. He had loaded his wagon and was on his return to town, when, in descending a hill the neck-yoke probably broke and the horses became beyond his control. On reaching the foot of the hill they ran upon a tree, stopping the wagon so suddenly as to throw Edward, who is only about fourteen years of age, from his seat on the wagon, when the wood fell upon and around him, and a general wreck was the result, in which his right thigh was broken in two places. He was released from his perilous position and brought to town by Mr. John Bush, and Dr. R. L. Walston summoned, who reduced the fractures, and last evening the boy was resting quite comfortably, though he is pretty sore from the effects of his mishap.

"Haymakers."
The next rehearsal will be at the parlor of the Chicago Musical College this (Thursday) evening, at 7:30 o'clock. All are requested to be present.
